

How does the Charity Fast-a-Thon work?

Breakfast: On Thursday, September 13 of this year, you'll wake up for an early breakfast before dawn - around 5:00 am. You should drink lots of fluids, and eat foods that are nourishing and filling like oatmeal with a banana or granola.

Fasting: Stop eating at 5:29 am, and for the rest of the daylight hours, don't eat or drink anything. If you have a filling breakfast and drink plenty of fluids, you shouldn't feel dizzy or tired for the next 12 hours without food and drink. If you get tired in the afternoon and have time, take a short nap.

Compassion: If fasting seems difficult, think of the 33 million people in America and 850 million people around the world who are hungry on a daily basis. Also, 1 billion Muslims are fasting throughout this month. You can do it for 12 hours! ©

Iftar = Breaking the Fast

At sunset, your work is done! Come to the Palmeiro Center at 6:30 pm to break your fast with free dinner. Bring your saved lunch money to donate to a local charity "Boys & Girls Club".

In the Muslim tradition, the fast will end with the evening call to prayer, the Athan.

We will break our fasts with drinks, fruit, and dates, the fruit of the palm tree. Then we will eat a full meal provided by the Muslim Student Association.

During dinner, we will have speakers who will teach us about Fasting, Hunger, and Charity.

The Month of Ramadan

Ramadan, the ninth month of the Islamic lunar calendar, is a full month of fasting for Muslims during the daylight hours. It is either 29 or 30 days long. In 2007, Muslims begin fasting at dawn on Thursday, Sept 13, 2007.

Why Muslims Fast

Muslims fast because they believe that God has commanded them to do so. The Qur'an says:

"O You who believe! Fasting is prescribed for you, just as it was prescribed for those before you, so that you may be conscious of God." (2:183)

They may also think about the benefits of fasting, including: developing self-control over hunger, thirst and sexual urges; training to be a good moral person; gaining sympathy for the less fortunate; and testing their sincerity to the Creator. No one polices the fasters, so fasting is a very private test of obedience to God.

Sawm = Fasting

What? "Sawm" is the word for a fast that begins at dawn and ends at sunset. Muslims wake up before dawn, eat Sahoor (breakfast before fasting) and drink liquids to prepare for fasting. Fasting begins just before dawn. During the daylight hours, fasters refrain from eating, drinking, smoking and sex. In addition, they try to be on their best behavior during Ramadan and treat others as well as possible, as sins like gossiping would defeat the purpose of fasting.

Who? Fasting throughout the month of Ramadan is required of all Muslims who have attained puberty. Those who are pregnant, nursing, ill, or traveling may choose to postpone their fast.

During the month, Muslims may conduct their business as usual. However, in many Muslim countries, working hours are shortened.

At sunset, Muslims hear the call to evening prayers and quickly break their fasts by eating dates and drinking water or milk. Evening prayers are then completed.

Afterwards, they eat a full meal that usually includes nourishing grains and proteins. After a brief rest, many of them meet at a mosque [place of worship] to offer the night prayer followed by a special long night prayer called Taraweeh.

This process continues for 29 or 30 days, until the month is over. The first day of the next month is a major holiday called Eid al Fitr, the Festival of the Fast-Breaking.

Ramadan is a time of unity and community spirit for Muslims. Relatives, friends, and neighbors make a special effort to share meals together and unite to feed the poor.

Charity

Muslims must pay charity to the poor of the society as a religious obligation. Charity is especially important during Ramadan, a month of being especially conscious of God and our blessings and thinking of the needs of others.

Organized by:
Mississippi State University's Muslim Students Association

Charity Fast-a-Thon

Thursday, September 13

Fast beginning at: 5:29 am
Break fast together: 7:05 pm

Mississippi State University
Griffis Room, Palmeiro Center

Ever really been hungry?
Spend one day fasting and learn about hunger, and then join MSA at sunset for a free dinner and a great charity event.

Questions? Wanna join?
Pledge to give up eating and drinking for 12 hours and donate your lunch money to charity by writing to:

msstate.msa@gmail.com